FlowCode 8.0.0.6 Crack Download HERE !

The screenshot displays the FlowCode 8.0.0.6 interface. On the left, a variable declaration window shows: `count`, `minCount`, and `timer`. The central workspace contains a flowchart starting with an 'Interrupt' event (Enable TMR2, Call Macro UpdateCounter), followed by a 'Loop' block (While 1). The loop body consists of five 'Call Component Macro' blocks for `led_7seg_quad1:ShowDigit(3, count%10, 0)`, `led_7seg_quad1:ShowDigit(2, count/10, 0)`, `led_7seg_quad1:ShowDigit(1, minCount, 0)`, and `led_7seg_quad1:ShowDigit(0, minCount, 0)`. This is followed by a decision diamond 'If timer = 75?'. The 'Yes' path leads to a calculation block 'count = count + 1, timer = 0', then another decision diamond 'If count = 60?'. The 'Yes' path from this second decision loops back to the start of the loop. The 'No' path from both decision diamonds leads to the end of the loop. On the right, the 'Main (Pseudo)' code window shows the following C code:

```
1 Define macro called Main which returns no value
2 {
3
4   Enable interrupt TMR2 which will call macro UpdateCounter when triggered
5
6   Loop while the condition (1) holds
7
8   Call component macro ShowDigit on component led_7seg_quad1 with arguments 3, count%10
9
10  Call component macro ShowDigit on component led_7seg_quad1 with arguments 2, count/10
11
12  Call component macro ShowDigit on component led_7seg_quad1 with arguments 1, minCount
13
14  Call component macro ShowDigit on component led_7seg_quad1 with arguments 0, minCount
15
16  If the condition (timer = 75) holds
17
18  Do the following calculations
19    count = count + 1
20    timer = 0
21
22  If the condition (count = 60) holds
23
24  Do the following calculations
25    count = 0
26    minCount = minCount + 1
27
28  Otherwise
29    Do nothing
30  End of conditional code
31
32  Otherwise
33    Do nothing
34  End of conditional code
35
36  End of loop code
37
38
39
40
41
42
43 }
44
