At this time, modern technology is advancing the concept of cold storage. Storing coins in an environmentally controlled space is no longer an interesting science project; most storage solutions are not practical for routine use. Storing coins in the attic is best, but is extremely impractical and must be done with extreme care. A better option is in-sink storage. U.S. Pat. No. 6,622,145 for “In-sink, coin-holding device” and an earlier application, Ser. No. 09/561,911 for “In-sink, coin-holding device” filed in 2005 disclose a fundamental design.
